

You Have the Power to Change People's Lives

Give through United Way

On Thursday, December 9, Laboratory staff will once again gather in the MBG auditorium to hear about the needs of the community and how we can help by giving through United Way. Once we've heard; we'll choose individually if, when, and how much we want to give, knowing that our gifts can change people's lives in a very positive way.

Laboratory Director Ron Davidson notes, "Each year, PPPL has demonstrated true generosity in support of United Way, and we are dedicated to a very successful campaign for 1993. General Council kicked off the campaign with a United Way Meeting on Monday, December 6."

Scott Larson, Chair of this year's United Way campaign at PPPL, says, "I'm pleased to encourage giving through United Way, because I have confidence that our financial gifts will be used efficiently and effectively. Because so many people volunteer their time and donate services, United Way is able to keep costs low, so that more than 85 cents of every donor dollar goes directly to help people."

Larson also points out the flexibility of giving. We can choose to give money in three different ways—through the general fund for the local United Way, through the United Ways of Tri-State (which distributes funds through a formula to 31 partner United Ways), or we can choose to designate contributions to any certified nonprofit health and human services agency, anywhere in the country.

Flexibility is offered in method of giving as well—either through a regular payroll deduction or through a one-time gift made right at the meeting. Payroll deduction is a popular way to contribute that is both efficient and convenient—providing a way to give generously without the difficulty of writing one large check.

Learn about Community Needs

Floods, fires, and tumultuous weather have brought disaster to thousands in the United States this year, stretching the resources of the Red Cross—one of the benefactor agencies who will speak at PPPL group meetings about how our giving helps them rescue others from difficult plights. Representatives from Family Guidance, Crawford House and Womanspace will also speak.

Notes Larson, "The group meetings are designed to give everyone the information they need about what United Way is and how funds are allocated. We encourage everyone to listen with head and heart and to consider giving generously. However, we want to emphasize that all donations are confidential, and there is no pressure to give."

"We hope everyone will enjoy the coffee and doughnuts, the videos, and the door prizes that will be given at each meeting as well as the opportunity to give to the community. Our goal for PPPL is $29,500 and 75 percent participation. We ask everyone to come and to help us reach our goal!"

Where Your United Way Dollars Go

Brown Turns Poet

Thanks to Mary Ann Brown's poetic inspiration, the 1993 PPPL United Way campaign has both a "Burma Shave" slogan and a motto.

*Science is
The mind at play,
But heartfelt is United Way.*

Congratulations, Mary Ann, and may the muse of generosity be with us all!

THE WAY

WE SAY

BUT FOR TODAY

GO
WAY!

Community Spirit and Lab Generosity Yield a Cornucopia of Gifts!

Remember that old song lyric England Swings Like a Pendulum Do? You will be visiting some of the swinging spots in London yourself if you win the United Way Grand Prize of air tickets for two to London, once again generously donated by Virgin Atlantic Airlines. These and other great prizes will be part of the Grand Prize Drawing on December 17 (see below). Other great prizes will be given at the end of each of the four United Way meetings on December 9th. Come, enjoy, give generously, and the best of luck on winning a prize!

An enthusiastic cheer of gratitude to Lab staff, PPPL, and to community businesses for supporting our United Way drive through gift incentives. And thanks too for all the work done by Olga Bernett, Mary Ann Brown, Scott Larson, Sonja Patterson, and Barbara Sarfaty in soliciting gifts from the community.
